U.S. Ag Secretary visits port

■ Secretary Vilsack extols ag exports, stumps for President Obama's 'American Jobs Act'

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture paid a call on West Sacramento on Monday morning, as part of a White House effort to push for passage of the president's "American Jobs Act" stimulus proposal.

Secretary Tom Vilsack joined a handful of leaders from the region for a dockside press conference at the Port of West Sacramento. At that agriculturally-linked facility, he spoke of the value of farming exports and the importance of creating jobs both in agriculture and beyond.

"There is no question about the value of California agriculture, which is unmatched. And trust me, as a native of Iowa, that is hard for me to admit," Vilsack told the crowd. He extolled the value of trade — including the shipment of farm products.

"Every billion dollars of trade generates 8,400 jobs here in the U.S.," said Vilsack. "Here in the U.S. . . we have a trade surplus in agriculture, and we're excited and bullish about the future of American agriculture, and about continuing to grow these exports with the passage of more free trade agreements."

But, "in order to get this economy moving again, it's going to take more than agriculture," he added. "We want to accelerate it."

That's where the American

Jobs Act comes in. President Obama has urged Congress to "pass it now."

"The president believes that by proposing bipartisan ideas, he can get quick action," said Vilsack. The proposed legislation includes a payroll tax cut for small businesses and help building highways, railways, bridges, dams and ports, he added. There would be tax incentives for businesses who hire vets or people who have been out of work for at least six months.

"It would mean about 50,000 construction workers currently out of work in California today would go back to work."

The legislation would also help keep teachers teaching, and support firefighting jobs, classroom modernization and other goals, said Vilsack.

The proposed programs have been "paid for" with existing revenues, he said, and "it doesn't add to the deficit, because (the president) also understands the importance of putting our fiscal house in order."

Yolo County Supervisor Mike McGowan spoke before Vilsack, saying, "we do strongly believe in the American Jobs Act — it's critical to our success. We have people here, ready to work."

"Our top priority now is adding jobs," echoed Sacramento Congresswoman Doris Matsui, who will soon replace fellow Democrat Mike Thompson in representing West Sacramento, due to redistricting.

West Sacramento mayor Christopher Cabaldon spoke briefly, noting that "you don't see a lot of ships here today."

"This is a port that handles a lot of bulk commodities," said Cabaldon. "Ships are getting bigger and bigger, and we need to deepen our channels."

To deepen the Port of West Sacramento's waterways, the city has been looking for federal help with the project to help it accept more of these big ships. That's the kind of federal infrastructure work that would pay back dividends, he said.

Street fair comes to West Capitol Saturday

A 'multicultural fair' remains on the calendar for this Saturday, from noon to 4 p.m. at 1271 West Capitol Avenue. The site is the same place behind Walgreens that has been used for West Sacramento's Thursday-night farmers markets this summer.

There will also be booths sent up nearby at the community center and library. Visitors are invited to dress up in costumes showing off their cultural heritage — with a prize promised for the best outfit.

Yard sale regs

Larry Brooks, West Sacramento's code enforcement officer, reminds the public that the rules regarding holding a garage sale in West Sacramento changed in 2009. The city council had adopted an ordinance it hoped would limit the blight of homemade signs and inconvenience to neighbors posed by some households which held a lot of such sales.

"The ordinance . . . restricts the number of yard sales per household to no more than three per calendar year," said Brooks. In addition, the regulation makes it illegal to place signs on street posts, telephones and in the public right of way. Signs are only allowed at the location of the yard sale."

Violators may be cited. To report a violation, call 617-5001.

Work day at Rotary's park

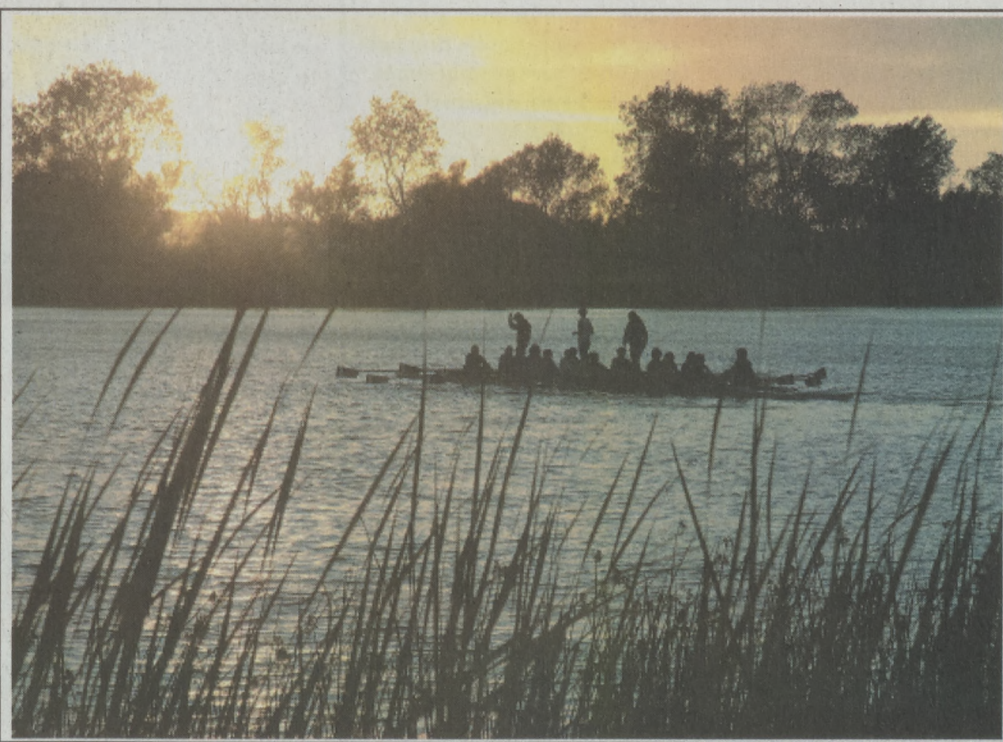

Tim Carnahan (right) joined fellow members from the city's two Rotary clubs on Saturday morning, sprucing up a small park the organization has adopted across from the Safeway complex on Jefferson Road. Several dozen showed up, trimming shrubs, raking leaves and otherwise tidying the spot up.

Club member Dan Ramos said one of the goals was to ready the site for a new 'kinetic sculpture' that Rotary would soon install at the park.

The city has two Rotary chapters — one with an early morning meeting time every week, and the other with a lunchtime meeting schedule. Did the lunchtime chapter have any trouble getting to the work party at 9:00 on Saturday morning?

"Well, more of that group did show up a bit later," allowed Don Schatzel.

Not everyone is excited about Viagra

You don't need Viagra; just theater tickets

Awhile ago my work computer got hacked into and someone began sending out spam to all the people on my contact list. And being the lucky guy I am, the spam that was generated to almost everyone I know turned out to be how to purchase the cheapest Viagra pills on the market. So I ended up spending more days than I care to count contacting friends and family members trying to convince them that I was not a part-time Viagra salesman when I wasn't busy at the News-Ledger. Anyway, it at least reminded me of the following column, which was written just after Viagra first started running their yucky commercials, and I think it needs to see the light of day again:

A friend of mine strolled up to me the other day, smiled wider than usual and said, "So, have you heard about Viagra?"

"Viagra who?" I asked, having never heard the word before.

"Viagra is not a who, stupid. It's a what!"

"Okay then, what is it?"

"It's a brand new drug that cures male impotence," he said with emphasis. "They're saying it's just like a magic bullet. No more vacuum pumps, shots, implants, none of that stuff. All you have to do now is pop a pill."

"Really?" I asked, wondering if maybe he was trying to tell me something.

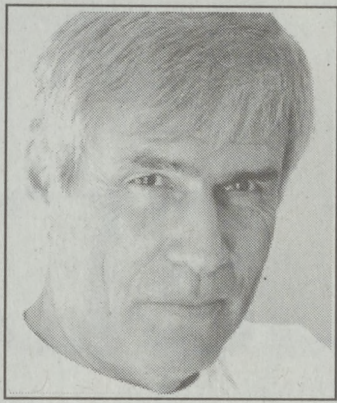

"Here," he said, handing me a copy of Time magazine. "There's a big article in there all about it. Guys our age really need to read it. And feel free to give it someone else who might be in need when you're done."

"Thanks," I said, not knowing exactly what else to say.

Later that evening, when I got home from work and had some time to thumb through the magazine, I discovered that Viagra really is a brand new drug that is proving to be 60-80 percent effective at curing most forms of male impotence. It has only been on the market for a few months, but apparently it's already the best selling new drug to come along since Prozac. Would-be patients have been besieging urologists' offices and sex clinics and paying lots of money for a prescription.

One of the people Time magazine interviewed was Dr. Ruth Westheimer and old Dr. Ruth said, "On the positive side, by the year 2004 there will be 90 million grandparents in the United States, and for them, this will be a boon."

That was a pretty scary thought, grandfathers all over the nation stocking up on Viagra, but I suddenly remembered that I, too, have high hopes of being a grandparent by the year 2004 and I decided to take the article a little more seriously. It wasn't that easy to do, though, because each page also had a Viagra-inspired cartoon on it, including one where equally long lines of people were standing outside two buildings. One of the buildings was a movie theater and the marquee read "Titanic Now Playing".

The other building was a pharmacy, and the sign in its window read "Viagra Now Available!"

I also decided I better read the section entitled, "The downside of Viagra", which began with the words, "Viagra may help millions of men, and even some women, but it is not a sexual cure-all. It is not an aphrodisiac; it will not work in the absence of desire. In fact, there are some risks to taking Viagra that everyone should consider before rushing to the pharmacy: One out of ten men in the clinical trials developed blinding headaches that grew more severe at higher doses; about 3 percent of users develop temporary vision problems, ranging from blurred vision to a blue or green halo effect; Viagra can trigger sudden drops in blood pressure; and some men may develop priapism (defined as four or more continuous hours of arousal)."

"What are you reading?" asked my wife as she suddenly sat down on the couch next to me.

"Oh, nothing."

"Where did you get a Time magazine?"

"Oh, from a friend."

"And why did you close it when I sat down?"

"Well, it's just that, well, you know, I was kinda reading this silly article, and, well, it's about this new drug for men, and well, it's called..."

"You mean Viagra?"

"Yeah," I said with surprise. "You've heard about it?"

"Of course. Everyone at work is talking about it."

"Really? You've heard about Viagra? Well, what do you think? I mean, women must be pretty excited about this new drug, too."

"Not really."

"Why?"

"Because women won't get excited until scientists finally discover a magic pill we can give our husbands that will make them want to take us to a play or the ballet. Or better yet, out to dinner and dancing!"

NOTICE

(916) 371-4535

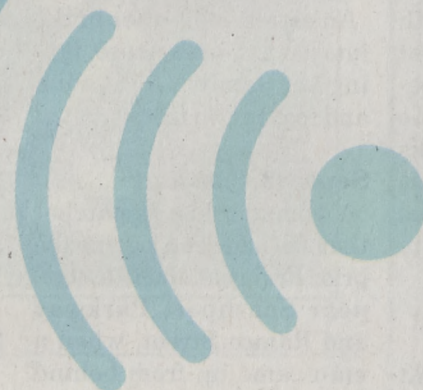

To be fair to those families using our services and their need for parking, we are now requiring that any person or organization wanting to use our parking lot for an event at the VFW, call us directly and make an appointment to discuss their needs. River Cities Funeral Chapel will then assist with coordination between the VFW and us.

For 32 years, the Daniel Family, owners of the funeral home and the parking lot, have tried to find a balance between the VFW's use of our lot and the needs of the families contracting with us for our services. As our City grows, this balance is becoming more difficult.

One option we have considered is to simply close the parking lot off completely and make it available for River Cities use only. As of now, we are working hard to avoid that situation. If it does come to that, we hope you can understand that our loyalty is to you and those families that we have faithfully served in the past and hope to continue to serve in the future.

We want to thank you for your past and continued support.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Buck" (PG) -- This documentary tells the story of real-life cowboy and horse-guru Buck Brannaman. Buck's talent is something astounding to behold -- he emphasizes sensitivity and partnership when he's working with defiant equestrians. As Buck puts it, he's "helping horses with people problems."

The film links Buck's profound sympathy with his childhood as the abused son of another famous cowboy hero. When Buck sees troubled horses, he has an uncanny ability to see through to the troubles in the lives of their owners. This tale of a true character with awe-inspiring presence and an enormous heart has rightfully been wrangling in awards since hitting the trail at Sundance.

"Fast Five" (PG-13) --

BUCK BRANNAMAN

Against the exotic backdrop of Rio de Janeiro, a wild crew of expert drivers plot one last criminal act to get escape the law. If you had Dwayne Johnson coming after you, you'd drive like a maniac too. As the final stunt in the "Fast and Furious" series, Paul Walker, Vin Diesel and Tyrese Gibson reprise their roles, and yes, they all still have abs.

Every shot that isn't going 100 miles an hour is packed with some form of eye candy -- exciting locales, daring stunts, flashy cars or shots of the beautiful women who apparently live in remarkable population densities throughout Brazil. The movie's climactic one-last-heist is a fitting end for its adrenaline-injected franchise.

"Scream 4" (R) -- When this series started more than a decade ago, it was first slasher series to attain full self-awareness. As a loving parody of a genre known for predictability, "Scream 4" tries to inject some whodunit mystery into the darkened territory of horror movies.

When beautiful young starlets are getting killed off like it's the '90s again, returning members of the original cast (Neve Campbell, David Arquette and Courtney Cox) must solve the mystery and stop the Ghostface Killer before there isn't anybody left in the movie younger than 40. While teen girls tremble in horror of a mad man with a kitchen knife, audiences might sweat under the weight of so much self-referential humor and constant winks at the

"Dead Alive" (Unrated)

[Blu-ray] -- This 1992 New Zealand zombie gorefest is gruesome and shocking, in part because it's one of the early works of Peter Jackson -- the man who delivered the high-budget majesty of "The Lord of the Rings." Over-the-top guts and gore, lusty undead, a Kung-fu Catholic priest and a cartoonish humor make this blood-soaked nightmare a bucket of fun.

A Chicken in Every Pot

With the political season under way, with of its political promises, I'm reminded of a famous old political slogan, about "a chicken in every pot." While the quote is often attributed to President Herbert Hoover, its origin is thought to be from King Henry IV of France.

In the 17th century, he reportedly said that, "I want there to be no peasant in my kingdom so poor that he is unable to have a chicken in his pot every Sunday." The Republican Party expanded the saying during the 1928 presidential campaign in an advertisement that promised "a chicken in every pot and a car in every backyard, to boot."

While modern-day promises have changed somewhat, it's still a wonderful thing to come home to a pot full of flavorful chicken. If you're the one responsible for the cooking, that could be a problem -- unless you use a slow cooker to make that meal.

Slow cookers use a low temperature to cook foods and retain moisture. They generally operate at 170 F to 280 F. This might seem too low to be safe, but in fact, the slow cooker's direct heat on the food, long cooking time and the steam produced inside a tightly covered container makes the process safe. The combination kills harmful bacteria that can cause illness. It also helps less expensive, leaner cuts of meat become tender and shrink less, according to the Food Safety and Inspection Service.

My recipe for Sweet and Sour Slow-Cooker Chicken contains easy convenience ingredients and is a complete and delicious meal in a pot

... and that's a promise!

SWEET AND SOUR SLOW-COOKER CHICKEN

2 pounds boneless, skinless chicken thighs, cut into 1/2-inch strips
2 tablespoons light soy sauce
1 (16-ounce) package fresh or frozen and thawed stir-fry vegetables
1 (8-ounce) can pineapple chunks in unsweetened juice, drained, reserving juice
1/2 cup purchased sweet-and-sour sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon grated ginger root or 1/2 teaspoon powdered ginger
1 large (about 16 ounces) can or bag crispy chow mein or rice noodles
3 green onions, white and green parts, cut into 1-inch pieces

1. In 3 1/2 to 4-quart slow cooker, combine chicken and soy sauce; mix to coat evenly. Add the stir-fry vegetables and reserved pineapple juice. Stir to combine. Cover; cook on low setting for 4 to 5 hours.
2. In small bowl, combine sweet-and-sour sauce, cornstarch and gingerroot or powdered ginger; and stir until well-blended. Stir into chicken mixture. Add pineapple chunks; stir gently to mix.

3. Increase heat setting to high; cover and cook an additional 20 to 25 minutes. Serve over chow mein noodles and sprinkle with the green onions. Makes 6 servings.

Italian Vegetable Relish

Zucchini happens to be one of those vegetables that gets far too little respect. I think it might be because its vines are so proficient. No matter how good something is, when it's overabundant, it somehow is taken for granted.

Try this ultra-easy relish, and others just might ask you, "Where in the world did you come up with this great recipe?"

"Sister"

By Rosamund Lupton
(Crown Publishing, $24)
Reviewed by Rose M. Croke

Older sister Bee is living an ideal life with her fiancé and a great career abroad in New York. One evening, Bee gets a call from her mother in England, who informs her that Tess, her free-spirited 21-year-old sister, is missing. Without hesitation, Bee buys a plane ticket home to search for Tess, who is pregnant and due to give birth any day.

Shortly after Bee arrives, Tess's body is found. The police investigation concludes that Tess took her own life after giving birth to a stillborn child. Bee is certain that the police are wrong, and she launches her own investigation.

Bee's determination to find out what really happened to her sister drives the plot and sets the tone of the story, all the while beautifully conveying the powerful bond between sisters. Bee's palpable grief and relentless dedication to finding out what happened during Tess's final days are heartbreaking. Framed as a letter to her deceased sister, Bee deconstructs the events leading up to Tess's death and lays out the facts as she herself uncovers them.

Part psychological thriller and part medical drama, "Sister" is the work of first-time novelist and former scriptwriter Rosamund Lupton. Written in an unusual narrative style, Lupton weaves together a compelling story about family, relationships, grief and loss, with an interesting angle involving genetic testing.

"Sister" is a haunting love story with twists and turns, false leads, plentiful red herrings and a gasp-inducing surprise ending. It's the kind of enthralling story that, when read on a stormy night, may cause readers to jump in fright at a sudden clap of thunder.

and scoring three touchdowns in just one half of play against El Dorado.

Tackles Tevita Mafi and Hugo Dominguez opened up gaping holes in the El Dorado defense for the Raider runs. Quarterback Joey Beall completed key passes to Malik Dumetz and William Leggat and made a 26 yard TD pass to AJ Gomez.

Halfbacks Juan Lazcano, Javier Martinez and Fullback Sope Ojo all added touchdown runs. Receiver Myles Matamores scored on a 25 yard pass from Tucker McAmoil.

The swarming Raider defense got in on the scoring action as well. McAmoil returned an interception for a 35 yard TD and defensive end Jr Chean scored on a 10 yard fumble recovery run. River City overwhelmed the Cougar offense with its pressure and tight coverage package.

RCHS Head Coach Art Bustamante looks forward to this Friday's challenge: "These are the types of games that separate the "challengers" from the "champions." We live for these opportunities. We feel like we are improving and it's time to take control of our own destiny."

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

The Sacramento River registered 9 ft. 4 in., U. S. gauge, at the S. P. bridge yesterday. A raise is expected during the coming week owing to the few days of warm weather that will make their impression on the snow-drifts on the side of the mountains.

The service station about to be established by Fraser and Doyle on Fifth Street, will be ready for business on or about March 5th. A steel service house has been ordered and is on the way from San Francisco, and will probably arrive here on March 1st. The foundation, together with the supply tanks and all other appliances, have already been installed and no time will be lost as soon as the service house arrives. In describing the service station a few weeks ago the Independent remarked that 100,000 cars passed the station every year. The statement should have read that 100,000 cars passed the station every month.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony a regular wedding feed was provided by the groom for a few intimate friends, after which they left for Stockton for a few days honeymoon. While the two young people have been constant friends for some considerable time, their relatives believed they were not about to be married for some time to come, but youth knows no restraints. They have returned from their honeymoon and are now established in housekeeping quarters at the home of the bride's mother.

The Hoffman house was sold yesterday to Mr. C. E. Carrier lately of Galt. Mr. Carrier will make his home over the soft drink parlor and it is his intention to make considerable improvement to the house after he moves his family to the premises. During the past six months the Hoffman house has been the property of Tom Arndt and Gonnelli and was operated by them strictly within the law and without criticism from the authorities. Arndt is about to make a trip to the eastern States expecting to be absent for at least four or five months while his partner, Gonnelli, expects to engage in business in Sacramento. It is Mr. Carrier's intention to operate the Hoffman House in a similar way, catering to the population and to many friends he has cultivated up and down the State. He intends to invest at least a thousand dollars in furnishings and fixtures for the several rooms in the building.

MASQUERADE BALL BY FIREMEN A GREAT SUCCESS

The masquerade ball by the Fire Commissioners and the volunteer firemen last night in the town hall was a great success in a social and financial way. A splendid spirit of rivalry prevailed throughout the evening, not alone in costuming and in dancing but in vying for the valuable prizes that were offered by the committee. Some magnificent costumes were shown during the evening and some splendidly robed groups contended for the principal prizes.

Up to the time of going to press the names of the winners of the prizes could not be learned, but will be published in next week's issue of the Independent.

The firemen and trustees are giving these entertainments to raise funds to keep the town hall in repair.

COUNTY BEE INSPECTOR APPOINTED BY YOLO SUPERVISORS

At the last meeting of the board of supervisors a bee inspector was appointed for Yolo County. His duties commenced on February 15th. All bee keepers in the county will expect a call from him most any time, and those not having movable hives so he can inspect them easily will have to expect to have their boxes broken open so that he can inspect them.

It is the duty of the bee inspector to inspect the bees and not to clean the hives affected with foul breed. The bee inspection service has been placed under the supervision of the horticultural commissioner.

YOLO GIANTS ARE ORGANIZED IN BASEBALL TEAM

Young men around Washington are not going to go to sleep this summer watching boys from other localities enjoying baseball games and other sports.

Under the leadership of Grant De Riso the Yolo Giants are now organized and are now practicing to challenge some of the crack teams of Sacramento and other places.

At this writing thirteen of the best players around town have joined the club and more will be taken in as they show aptitude and service. De Riso is manager and captain of the team, and Dave Berry has been named treasurer.

One thing that is badly needed is a place for practice for the boys. The school playground is too small and too badly cut up for real practice and the boys are looking for some good citizen with a vacant lot to offer them the ground on which to practice.

Yesterday the Yolo Giants beat Shorty Glenn's Colts of Bryte, with a score of 6-4. The game was a lively one while it lasted and an offer for a return game has been made by the Giants, which may be played next Sunday.

WILSON MAY RECOVER FROM SEVERE INJURIES

James Wilson, farmer of Yolo County, whose ranch is located west of the Yolo causeway and south of the eucalyptus grove just beyond the Yolo basin, is located with friends now at 2310 Y street, Sacramento, suffering with a fractured skull, sustained by him at the hands of unknown persons on the evening of Thursday, February 15th.

Wilson was discovered by his next door neighbor, William Anspaugh, who reported the occurrence to Constable Buckingham. He was taken by the constable to the emergency hospital in Sacramento for immediate treatment and was later removed to the county hospital.

When first found Wilson claimed that he had not been robbed, but subsequently it was ascertained that nearly $100 were taken from his person during the time he was unconscious after being beaten. Wilson had been in Sacramento February 15th and had been drinking somewhat, but claimed to have been sober until he started for his home. After that he remembers nothing.

Wilson was found in the tank house on his ranch late in the afternoon. He was rushed to the emergency hospital, where he was found to be in a serious state suffering from deep lacerations about his face and head. A wrench which was found near where the man lay seemed to indicate that it had been the weapon used.

The injured man stated to relatives that he had visited all day in Sacramento Thursday but did not remember anything until he woke up during the night and discovered his injury.

He denied that his friends could possibly have anything to do with his misfortune, and was unable to account for such an occurrence.

The authorities have a suspicion as to who committed the crime, because a similar crime was committed in Dunnigan a few nights before.

While Wilson's recovery is somewhat doubtful, friends are hoping that he will pull through. His left ear was split from the auricle to the upper portion, one eye was severely black-

VAN TASSEL ANSWERS SCHOOL TRUSTEES ABOUT LOCATION

Woodland, Calif., Feb. 17, 1923. To the Editor of Independent-Leader, Broderick, Calif.

Dear Sir—In answer to the Trustees of the Sacramento River district, would like to know where they get the name of Riverview school? There is not a school district by that name.

I am willing to admit one error in my last statement, that is the teacher leaving her car at the church, but that was unnecessary as she could have driven down the river road right to the school house, just as easy and it would have been just about as near, as that road has been traveled all winter.

It does not make any difference whether I am in that school district or not, I have a right to express what is the truth in regard to that school, as I have lived in this locality all my life, and know what has happened, more than some that have come in here in the last few years.

I think you will find that a great many of the people that are so anxious to build that new school out in the district by the church, pay little if any taxes.

To build a new school will mean a tax of about $6 per acre, which will mean a big expense to the real property owners.

Then again, when the land settles up in the vicinity of the present school, it would mean that those children would have to go just as far as these children do now that come in from the district. If this building is too small, why not build on the present site?

Just look at the buildings at the Sacramento River school, ruined and damaged so as to get an excuse to break up this district and start a new district.

It sure looks like the trustees are doing very little to protect county property, which is the duty of a school trustee.

It also seems to me that the teacher also could assist, which is her duty as teacher. You can look back just a short period to when George Laiken was trustee of that district, he took an interest in the school and saw that everything was kept in order, as it should.

Yet many of the non-taxpayers at that time found a lot of fault.

Most of the schools in the county are being consolidated, rather than starting a new district.

I am just taking this opportunity to express the real facts and conditions that exist rather than a lot of misleading statements that were made a few weeks ago.

Very truly yours,
H. M. VAN TASSEL.

The name of the school district was inadvertently changed by the editor of the Independent from "Sacramento River district" to "Riverview district." The communication from the Trustees published in last week's issue was correct when received in this office.—Editor.

ened and the scalp was deeply cut, permitting an effusive flow of blood at the door of his tank house.

*The following examples of 100% financing of qualified retrofit projects under the CHF Residential Energy Retrofit Program are based on a 15-year, fixed-rate CHF Loan. The monthly payment on a $10,000, 15-year fixed-rate CHF Loan at 3.00% interest would be $89.06 and the Annual Percentage Rate (APR) would be 3.403%. The payment on a $10,000, 15-year fixed-rate CHF Loan at 0.00% interest would be $56.56 and the APR would be 0.372%. The only fees used to calculate the APR are the escrow fee and the loan processing fee. Title policy and recording fees are not included in the APR calculation. The APR goes down as the amount borrowed goes up.
